STANFORD, Calif.- Anthony Brown notched a double-double, leading five players in double figures as Stanford coasted to a 97-71 victory over Texas Southern on Thursday night at Maples Pavilion in the first round of the Progressive Legends Classic.

Brown finished with a career-high 23 points and season-high 10 rebounds, compiling his third career double-double and first since totaling 15 points and 12 boards against Cleveland State in the NIT back on March 13, 2012. He was 9-13 from the field, 3-5 from beyond the arc and dished out three assists.

Josh Huestis poured in 18 points (7-11 FG, 4-5 3FG) and grabbed six rebounds while Chasson Randle (15), Aaron Bright (12) and Dwight Powell (11) also reached double digits in scoring.

Stanford (4-1) was highly effective offensively, shooting 47.4 percent overall and knocking down 13-26 from three-point territory. The Cardinal dished out a season-high 21 assists on 37 buckets, and owned a commanding 51-32 edge on the glass.

Texas Southern (2-4) was led by Aaric Murray's 28 points while also receiving 24 from Jose Rodriguez.

The back-and-forth first half was extremely competitive, featuring five ties and 13 lead changes. Trailing 42-41, the Cardinal scored 10 of the final 12 points during a three-minute stretch before halftime. The dagger was a corner triple from Brown on the final possession of the period.

Stanford extended its lead to 70-49 with 10:55 remaining following a three-pointer from Huestis.

The Cardinal limited the Tigers to 30.0 percent shooting over the second half to preserve the victory.

Stanford next faces Houston on Monday, Nov. 25, in the championship round of the Progressive Legends Classic at Barclays Center in Brooklyn, N.Y.
